Campaigners boosted by hospital referral decision

Marathon year for teachers

TWO teachers who spent last year running a marathon every month have raised £2,513 for two charities.

In 2016 Rebecca Lund, head of PE at Kingham School, near Chipping Norton, and Chris Larner, geography and economics teacher, decided to test their running endurance by participating in one marathon every month to raise money for Motor Neurone Disease Association and International Needs, a Christian mission and development charity.

The pair covered more than 2,500 miles in races and training between them, which was all completed around their full-time teaching jobs.

Rebecca and Chris's marathon trail took them across the UK with races in Milton Keynes, Portland, Stratford-upon-Avon, as well as overseas runs in Dublin and Athens.

Chris said: "In 2016 I wanted to challenge myself and this seemed to live up to it. I had never run a marathon before so I decided that if I was doing all the training, I might as well run 12."

Rebecca added: "I've thoroughly enjoyed this challenge, I thought choosing a marathon a month

Health secretary to rule over maternity services

By Samantha McGregor

THE decision to suspend consultant-led maternity services at a Banbury hospital has been referred to the Health secretary.

Last week the Joint Health & Overview Scrutiny Committee unanimously voted to refer the Oxford University NHS Foundation Trust's (OUHFT) decision to suspend obstetric services at the Horton General Hospital to the Secretary of State for Health.

The health trust suspended services last October over concerns about patient safety after problems recruiting "middle-grade" doctors at the hospital.

Nine middle-grade doctors should be in post to run the service safely - but so far the trust has not recruited enough staff.

The suspension has remained in place following two successive quarterly reviews.

Oxfordshire MPs Victoria Prentis, Banbury, and Robert Courts, Witney, welcomed the referral.

Mrs Prentis said: "HOSC's decision is a major breakthrough for all of us who have been campaigning hard against the downgrade. The cross party nature of this campaign is apparent in the unanimity shown.

"It will be interesting to see how the decision to refer will impact the Oxfordshire Transformation Programme split consultation exercise which is ongoing, and about which I continue to have grave concerns. The fight continues, but I am confident that the Secretary of State will take this issue very seriously."

Mr Courts said: "The ramifications of the suspension of obstetric services at the Horton go far beyond the residents of Banbury.

"This matter needs more scrutiny and consultation and should never have been so light."

At last Thursday's Health and Scrutiny meeting, Cllr Kieron Mallon (Bloxham & Easington Division), Eddie Reeves (Conservative candidate for Calthorpe Division) and Ian Davies, Director of Operational Delivery at Cherwell District Council, raised major concerns about the way the trust took the decision to suspend consultant-led maternity services and the detrimental impact that decision "has had on patient safety and choice in North Oxfordshire and beyond".

Majority of county homes are 'simply unaffordable'

By George Welch and Eva Astreinidou

'HOUSING in Oxfordshire is simply unaffordable for many people'.

That's the message from a housing association chief after it was revealed the average price of a house in the county now costs 12.3 times the average salary.

The National Housing Federation's South East Home Truths 2016/17 report shows the average price in Oxfordshire is £380,526 while the average earnings are £30,846.

The report also reveals the average rental property in Oxford costs £1,206 per month, meaning an outgoing of half most people's salary.

The figures come as a Government White Paper was unveiled announcing plans for £3billion to build more affordable homes after ministers admitted England's housing market is "broken".

Plans to fix the country's housing crisis were revealed by Communities Secretary Sajid Javid on Tuesday after the Government admitted to lagging behind its schedule of building 250,000 homes a year.

The Government's new housing strategy for England, as outlined in the White Paper, aims to get the right homes built in the right places, speed up house building and to diversify the market.

To do this, local councils would be forced to produce an up-to-date plan for housing demand and would be given greater powers to pressure developers to start building on land they own.

The £3bn funding pot would also help smaller building firms challenge major developers, as 60 per cent of new homes are currently built by just 10 big building firms.

"With prices continuing to sky rocket, if we don't act now, a whole generation could be left behind"

Communities Secretary Sajid Javid

Outlining the plans, Mr Javid said: "Walk down your local high street today and there's one sight you're almost certain to see. Young people, faces pressed against the estate agent's window, trying and failing to find a home they can afford.

"With prices continuing to skyrocket, if we don't act now, a whole generation could be left behind. We need to do better, and that means tackling the failures at every point in the system.

"The housing market in this country is broken and the solution means building many more houses in the places that people want to live."

In Oxford, the average house cost is £471,599, 16 times the average salary of £29,406, while in south Oxfordshire, an average house costs £441,889 - 12.5 times the district's average income.

Didcot-based Soha Housing said the report proves "that there is an acute housing crisis in the region".

Chief executive of Soha Housing, Richard Peacock, added: "This report evidences what we all know - that housing in Oxfordshire is simply unaffordable for many people."

In West Oxfordshire, where salaries average £27,862, the typical worker would need a £50,582 pay rise (181 per cent) to get a mortgage for an average home in the district, according to Cotswold Housing Association Ltd.

The Government has also committed to protecting green belt land, which can only be built on "in exceptional circumstances".

The Government White Paper comes a week after Mr Javid announced a cash boost of £24.16 million for Oxfordshire to help create jobs, support businesses and encourage growth.

OxLEP CEO Nigel Tipple said the growth deal will provide "real opportunity for Oxfordshire to continue to drive economic growth locally and nationally".

MP's visit to hospital highlights cancer research

OXFORD West and Abingdon MP and health minister Nicola Blackwood visited an Oxford hospital on World Cancer Day to highlight the importance of UK scientific research in beating cancer.

Ms Blackwood visited the Oxford Cancer Centre at Churchill Hospital on Saturday to see state-of-the-art clinical trials, the National Institute for Health Biomedical Research Centre (BRC) and facilities for new cancer treatments and patients.

She said that, with the UK being a world leader in medical research, there is nowhere else more important than in the fight against cancer.

"The UK is among the very best in the world for medical and health research, and Oxford will be at the forefront of Britain's post-Brexit scientific success," she said.

"Oxford has a proud tradition of being at the heart of our endeavour to push the boundaries of modern medicine."

Funding for BRC's and dedicated Clinical Research Facilities (CRF) is at an all time high in the UK. This amounted to over £920m last year.

Prof Keith Channon, Oxford

BRC director, said: "We were pleased to host the minister's visit and delighted that she could see examples of the wide range of cutting edge research in cancer, from new discoveries in genetics through to patients receiving world-first drugs in clinical trials."

Banbury bucks trend with pledge to freeze its precept

Getting ready for tax rises

By Samantha McGregor

RESIDENTS are preparing to brace themselves as councils gear up to set the 2017/18 council tax.

Banbury Town Council has so far bucked the trend after it announced it would not be raising its precept this year.

Bicester Town Council said its bills were set to rise by two per cent.

Oxfordshire County and Cherwell District Councils will set their precept later this month, on February 14 and February 20 respectively.

The county council is proposing to increase its share of the council tax by 4.99 per cent.

For Banbury Town Council, this year marks seventh year running the council has kept its total tax bill to £122.12 for D band properties – a figure first set in 2010.

The town council has also pledged that there will be no cuts to services.

It said its finances were helped by the number of new houses in the town which contributed to the tax bill.

Leader of the council Kieron Mallon said: "We proving yet again that we can be trusted with taxpayers' money."

"Many councils across the country are increasing their bills, but we are not burdening taxpayers with extra costs."

"All services will be maintained to a high standard and some services will be improved."

"This is a result of good housekeeping and careful planning in previous years. The policy decisions we have taken in the past are now paying off."

Mr Mallon said among the projects planned for this financial year is buying land for a new cemetery, refurbishing changing rooms and playing areas at Easington Recreation Ground.

A band D property in Bicester will pay £122.50 for 2017/18.

Cllr Richard Mould, Conservative leader at Bicester

• Council leader Kieron Mallon says Banbury Town Council can be trusted with taxpayers' money

Town Council, said in the past 15 months the council had spent £430,000 refurbishing four play areas including Garth Park and building a café in Garth Park.

He said: "The next significant expenditure will be the provision of a new cemetery which we hope to see commence towards the end of 2017.

"We will also continue to look at the other play areas in the town of which there are over 60 to implement a planned maintenance programme."

He said funds had also been allocated to upgrade the current skate park.

News Bites

Bus route saved

BANBURY: Hard work by a councillor has saved a bus service between Easington, the Horton General Hospital and Banbury town centre.

Kieron Mallon, Conservative town, district and county councillor, stepped in after concerns were raised by local residents.

Last week Banbury and District Dial-a-Ride took over the running of the route.

Mr Mallon said: "The bus service is much-needed by elderly residents and others who need to get to the town centre from their homes in Easington."

Author visit

BICESTER: Author Chris Cleave will be the guest of honour at Coles Book Club, Crown Walk, Bicester, on Thursday, February 23, at 7pm.

Customers should buy and read the book, Everyone Brave is Forgiven, for £7.99, from the Crown Walk store, ahead of the event, then use the book as a ticket to the session.

Set in London and Malta during the years of 1939–1942, Everyone Brave is Forgiven is a wartime love story inspired by the real-life love letters between the author's grandparents.

Visitors have the chance to meet the author and ask questions, discuss the novel with other readers and have a glass of wine.

Horton hospital campaigners 'given much-needed fillip'

• From front page

Both Banbury's Labour and Conservative groups wrote open letters to the committee in advance of the meeting.

Banbury Labour group leader Sean Woodcock said: "I welcome this decision from HOSC.

"In 2008, it was referred to the then Secretary of State, Labour's Alan Johnson who made the correct decision to retain services at the Horton. We can now hope that history repeats itself and that Jeremy Hunt will make the right call for the people of Banbury and beyond."

Campaign group Keep The Horton General said: "It is gratifying that the members of HOSC listened to the MPs who submitted a letter, the two Banbury Councils who submitted a letter, KTHG who submitted a copy of the job advert for Consultants from Staffnurse.com, a copy of the survey (available on the KTHG website containing more than 250,000 words) plus a letter pleading with them to do the right thing for the people of Banburyshire.

"There is undoubtedly a long way to go but it has, at last, given everyone a much-needed fillip."

Two districts give support to one authority idea

By Eva Astreinidou

THE campaign for One Oxfordshire has gained the support of South Oxfordshire and Vale of White Horse councils, much to the dismay of opposing local authorities Cherwell, West Oxfordshire and Oxford City.

Two weeks after the proposal was published, the two councils have agreed to work together with Oxfordshire County Council to submit a joint bid to government.

They released a joint statement on Monday that said: "Having looked at all the evidence, we are convinced that a single unitary council for Oxfordshire provides the best prospect for maintaining high quality services and securing badly needed investment in infrastructure."

The joint bid put forward by South Oxfordshire and Vale of White Horse is building on the foundation of the draft One Oxfordshire proposal, with some changes.

One of the main focus points is 'strengthening the model of local accountability' at a more local level rather than relying on the area executive board model, an idea put forward in the initial proposal.

Another point was a revised model of council tax 'harmonisation' that would take place across the county over a period of time.

Matthew Barber, leader of Vale of White Horse District Council, said: "The Vale will play an important role in developing the final joint proposals for a unitary council, ensuring they have a strong local influence and impact and offer our communities value for money."

John Cotton, leader of South Oxfordshire District Council, added: "Helping to shape the future of our county is of the utmost importance to South Oxfordshire and I am committed to ensuring our communities continue to benefit from a council that understands local people's needs and aspirations."

And Ian Hudspeth, leader of Oxfordshire County Council, said: "I hope that other districts and city councils will join us to get the best out of the new council for their areas."

The three councils plan to jointly submit the bid to the Secretary of State in March. Savings delivered by 'One Oxfordshire' through merging of services and functions between the six councils could be up to £400,000 a week.

Plan would 'wipe out 1,000 years of city government'

THE One Oxfordshire campaign has led to a war of words between Oxfordshire councils, splitting those for and against right down the middle.

South Oxfordshire and Vale of White Horse district councils have joined up with Oxfordshire County Council (OCC), much to the dismay of councillors from Oxford City, Cherwell and West Oxfordshire.

Leader of Oxford City, Bob Price, opposes the new set of revisions put forward by the campaign's two recent supporters.

He said: "The county council and South and Vale district councils have caused chaos and confusion by launching a new set of proposals."

"The creation of a unitary council is unacceptable to the city. A thousand years of city government for Oxford would be wiped out and replaced with little more than a parish council."

Barry Wood, leader of Cherwell District Council, said: "When the county council's proposals for a single unitary authority were first unveiled, Cherwell stood united in opposition with Oxford City and the county's other district councils - including South and Vale.

"The fact that these two fickle councils have now defected to support the county's proposals does not alter my position."

James Mills, leader of West Oxfordshire District Council, said: "The One Oxfordshire proposal may sound attractive on the surface, but digging a little deeper, we soon see the adverse impacts it will have on our residents and how it is likely to change our district."

"One Oxfordshire is proposing savings of £20m a year, but this is a small sum when considered as part of the proposed authority's total budget of over £821m."

He said that the plans to join up all six councils could threaten the free parking across West Oxfordshire.

Major Tim set to return for second mission

By George Welch

BRITAIN'S most famous astronaut has announced he will be returning to the International Space Station (ISS) for a second mission with the Harwell-based European Space Agency (ESA).

Tim Peake, who spent seven months at the ISS last year, revealed he would be returning to the station at an event at London's Science Museum, where he was reunited with the charred Soyuz capsule that brought him back to Earth last June.

But plans about his next adventure with the ESA, based on Fermi Avenue, remain secret as the mission is yet to be named or scheduled and is unlikely to take place before 2019, according to reports.

Of his future mission, Major Peake told Sky News: "It's what every astronaut wants to do.

"Myself and my classmates from 2009, we are all going to get the second mission to the space station, which is wonderful.

"The work that is being done on board the space station is incredibly important and also tremendously exciting as well."

He added: "It is only natural to want to return. The one thing you miss is the view of planet Earth, of course. It is the most spectacular thing you can possibly see."

The event in London on January 26 marked a display for the Soyuz capsule going public for the first time.

Major Peake tweeted the same day: "Special moment [at the Science museum] this morning – reunited with Soyuz TMA-19M now on display, showing a few scars from re-entry."

The 44-year-old became the first British astronaut to join a ESA mission in December 2015 when he blasted into orbit aboard the Soyuz rocket from Kazakhstan. He spent six months on the space station.

He visited Harwell September last year to speak to school children and made a speech at a conference on the Campus's collaborative research and its role in healthcare innovation.

Ex-scout leader jailed for child abuse

A FORMER scout leader convicted for a number of child sex offences in Kidlington is "where he belongs", a police officer has said.

Gary Lane, 52, of Fairfax Road in Kidlington, was convicted at Oxford Crown Court on January 27 of four counts of child sexual abuse offences, which all took place in the Kidlington area.

At the hearing, Lane pleaded guilty to two counts of rape of a child under 13, one count of sexual assault on a child under 13 and one count of causing or inciting a child to engage in sexual activity.

Lane, who failed to turn up for court twice last year, committed the offences against two boys between January 1, 2015 and November 30, 2015 and was charged at Banbury police station on July 27 last year.

He has been remanded in custody and will be sentenced at Oxford Crown Court tomorrow.

Following the conviction, specialist investigator Rhys Bevan from the Child Abuse Investigation Unit said: "What Lane has put the victims and their families and loved-ones through is horrendous.

"I am very pleased with the outcome; finally Lane is where he belongs. Hopefully the victims can now try to move forward with their lives.

"Lane failed to turn up for court twice in 2016, fleeing once to Scotland which caused unnecessary stress for all involved. Police Scotland was incredibly helpful with their assistance.

"On behalf of Thames Valley Police and the Child Abuse Investigation Unit, I would like to take this opportunity to thank the victims for being so courageous in coming forward.

"The courage the victims have shown means no one else has to suffer at the hands of Lane."

More protest against Trump's travel ban

By Eva Astreinidou

A SECOND wave of protests against US President Donald Trump's travel ban kicked off in Oxford and London last weekend.

Saturday's protest at Carfax Tower, on Cornmarket Street, gathered around 100 people who were standing up against the US president's executive order which blocks people from seven Muslim-majority countries entering the United States.

The protest was organised by Oxford Stand Up To Racism, Oxford Stop the War Coalition, Oxford Peoples Assembly and Oxford Momentum.

It followed one of the biggest demonstrations in Oxford in the last 10 years with an attendance of 2,500 people.

Mariam Ahmed, joint chair of Oxford Stand Up To Racism, said: "There is a link between inflammatory statements by politicians and racist attacks and hate crimes on the street."

"The huge protests against Trump's immigration ban show the potential to push the racism back into the gutter where it belongs."

Cathy Augustine, Momentum Oxford Steering Committee member, said: "In a recent letter to Theresa May, Jeremy Corbyn demands that she withdraws her offer to Donald Trump of a state visit while Trump continues to propagate his anti-women, anti-Muslim and anti-Mexican policies."

"Momentum Oxford fully supports the stance of the Labour Party leader. We are pleased to join our voices with other Oxford groups opposing the racist, misogynistic, divisive policies of Trump – and telling Theresa May that she does not speak for us in her endorsement of them."

President Trump imposed the order on January 27.

The ban has sparked protests globally, led to a UK-wide petition to block the president's state visit and has also led to a major legal battle in the US.

The US appeals court denied the White House's attempt to reinstate Mr Trump's controversial travel ban on Sunday morning.

Community opens its arms to welcome pub

THE much-loved Abingdon Arms is now under community ownership following a campaign by locals and £3.6m worth of help.

The financial help from More Than a Pub Programme, funded by the Department for Communities and Local Government and Power to Change, as well as a variety of community contributions, means that the Beckley pub has been saved after a six-month long campaign.

The 17th-century pub was put up for sale in May 2016 by Brakspear.

After word spread about the prospect of losing the village pub, a committee was formed.

Their first point of action was to list The Abingdon Arms as an asset of community value, which then gave the team a six-month window to prepare a bid to buy the pub for the village.

A group of locals set up the Beckley and Area Community Benefit Society and raised over £475,000 in the first month of their community share scheme.

Society chairman Mike Hobbs said: "We have had a fantastic response to our campaign to save The Abingdon Arms in Beckley and are now the proud owners of a community pub."

"It has been heart-warming to see so many people supporting the project."

Community pubs minister Andrew Percy said: "Thanks to the More Than a Pub programme and local campaigners, The Abingdon Arms will now stay at the heart of the community."

"This is a great reason to celebrate with a pint."

'Queer' histories unearthed in a month of events

By Eva Astreinidou

A SERIES of events will run this February as part of LGBT History Month, starting off with a trail that exposes LGBTQ+ histories within Oxford's museum collections.

Launching on February 11, Out in Oxford will be the University of Oxford's first cross-collections trail, as a result of 'Celebrating Diversity', a project funded by Arts Council England and created with the LGBTQ+ community.

The trail will highlight LGBTQ+ experiences, and unearth 'queer' histories.

Professor Richard Parkinson, author of A Little Gay History, said: "Out in Oxford reassuringly reminds us that LGBTQ+ people have always been an integral part of human life and that our varied identities are not limited to the usual set of media stereotypes."

"Visibility is important and it is especially welcome in a university city where many young people come out.

"The time of full equality is not quite with us yet, but a trail like this brings it closer, by showing to everyone that we are utterly normal parts of the world."

"It provides a vision of what Oxford can and should be as a diverse, inclusive home for all its inhabitants."

Community groups, curators, performers and artists will come together to mark the launch.

Live performances, pop-up exhibitions from Oxford Pride and Tales of Our City, and a Drag King workshop are among the line-up of activities.

A few of the events will be held at Pitt Rivers Museum from February 11 till February 28.

On February 16, Philosophy in Pubs will explore the difference and relationship between gender and sex, discussing questions like 'are the concepts of male and female well defined and do their meanings differ in different circumstances? How do we know whether we are male or female?'

On February 25, an event specially curated by 'My Normal', an arts based project aiming to give LGBTQ+ youth 'safe spaces and a bigger voice', will host interactive art and workshops at Pitt Rivers Museum.

Singer-songwriter and LGBT and transgender rights activist CN Lester will be guiding a lecture at the Blavatnik School of Government today (Thursday) at 6pm.

The lecture will be based on the need for queer/trans history 'in a world that too often forgets that variations in gender and desire have always been with us'.

The year 2017 marks the 50th anniversary of the partial decriminalisation of homosexuality in England and Wales.

Town pub receives an unexpected delivery

THERE was a lucky escape for pub-goers and a driver after a van crashed into a wall and nearly ended up in a river.

The van crashed into the wall of a bridge going over the river Glyme in Woodstock, next to The Black Prince Pub, shortly after 4pm last Thursday.

The driver lost control of the vehicle and careered into the wall.

Nobody was seriously injured but Paul Malloy, from Oxfordshire Fire and Rescue Service, said the driver and the pub's patrons had "a very lucky escape".

South Central Ambulance Service treated the driver at the scene and checked over the people in the pub for shock.

Fire engines from Kidlington and Slade Park, Oxford attended.

Mr Malloy added that, if the crash was a few inches either way, "the van could have crashed into the pub, or ended up in the river".

Saving little people with big needs

By Eva Astreinidou

PLAY2GIVE is kickstarting a fundraising target of £10,000 having already raised more than £40,000 for the Oxford Children's Hospital and helped transform around 60,000 young lives each year for the last decade.

The funds raised were achieved thanks to the support of the local community that is 'committed to transforming' and helping 'save little people with big needs'.

Now, the charity is committed to contributing £10,000 to the hospital charity's £2million target in celebration of its 10th anniversary.

The charity's goal is to help towards the building of a new four-storey 62-bedroom Ronald McDonald House parent accommodation wing, allowing more parents and families to stay closer to their sick child.

As well as this, they hope to help fund a new play area and improve the environment for areas of the hospital.

In appreciation of the charity's fundraising efforts to date, a room on the Melanie's teenage ward will be named after Play2Give.

Made up of all volunteers including P2G founder Andrew Baker and Dale Harris, the group has contributed the funds to help provide medical equipment, toys and entertainment items to the hospital.

Over the years a whole array of fun and innovative events have been organised by the group. From its football tournaments to fundraising parties, merchandise, a head shave afternoon, one employee's 'Movember', 100km walk over 10 weeks, and book sales, the team have been keeping busy.

Andrew said: "It is only thanks to the funds raised by the likes of organisations such as P2G that the Children's Hospital at the John Radcliffe exists today."

P2G's Andrew and Dale both have personal and close reasons for supporting the Children's Hospital.

For Andrew, he was born at the JR with a brain injury 28 years ago, and spent his first few days fighting for life in the special care baby unit, where he was confined to an incubator.

Andrew was not able to talk until he underwent speech therapy at the age of five, and then suffered a further head injury aged eight when he was knocked over at school.

When he was 12, Andrew underwent brain surgery at the former Radcliffe Infirmary (RI) and started fundraising two years later, beginning with a campaign to raise £15m to build the children's hospital.

Oxford University Hospitals NHS Trust recognised the group in last year's Staff Recognition Awards where P2G made the top three for the 'Supporter of the Year' gong.

The tribute read: "Despite their own healthcare challenges, P2G continues to look to inspire others and to 'give back' wherever they can."

Blue Skye still aiming high

BLUE Skye Thinking, our charity for last year, is urging people to help them raise £50,000 as their Aim Skye High Appeal heads into its final six months.

Blue Skye Thinking, which was last year's Oxfordshire Guardian charity of the year, was set up in 2014 as a legacy for five-year-old Abingdon boy Skye Hall, who died later that year from the side effects of his aggressive cancer treatment.

The charity's Aim Skye High Appeal is a fundraising campaign that aims to raise £50,000 towards a three-year post doctoral research position at the renowned Northern Institute for Cancer Research.

The charity has already funded researcher Gemma Llarys last year, who has completed her first year of PhD studies.

She has investigated the effect of cancer therapies on cells with the most aggressive genetic changes and has presented her promising initial results at a national collaborative meeting.

Skye's mum Sally Hall founded Blue Skye Thinking with her husband Andrew, and said: "Advances have been made to identify pathways at a molecular level in the hope that new treatments will eventually 'do away' with outdated chemo- and radiotherapies."

"The money raised by the charity is having a very significant impact on this area of research which is driving us on to complete our Aim Skye High Appeal to raise the remaining £30,000 of our £200k target to employ a post doctoral researcher looking specifically into relapsed tumours."

To plan your own 'Skye High' event, email contact@blueskyethinking.org for a fundraising pack.

£1million hotel sold

A FORMER coaching inn just outside Bicester has been bought by property group Shepherd Cox.

The Jersey Arms, in Middleton Stoney, is the 16th hotel bought by the firm.

It was offered with a price tag of about £1m – and was the first time for 30 years the hotel had been on the market.

Its current owners are planning to retire.

Shepherd Cox director Nick Carlile said: "We have properties all over the north of England but The Jersey Arms offers plenty of potential to build on a sound business."

"We plan to increase the number of rooms from 20 to around 25 by converting some of the meeting rooms, and will look at adding another storey to the existing extension."

The Jersey Arms includes a bar with an eye-catching fireplace, a restaurant seating up to 40, as well as 20 letting bedrooms.

Peter Brunt, hotels director at Colliers International, which brokered the sale, said: "Our client owned the business for more than 30 years, and for many years focused upon bedroom trade as its main stay. "After such a good stint at the helm, retirement beckons, giving energetic new owners the opportunity to take the business forward."

"The Jersey Arms is perfectly placed for visitors heading for the Cotswolds or shoppers ready for a rest after a day at the nearby shopping outlet."

"Built as a coaching inn on a busy crossroads, The Jersey Arms offers the new owners an opportunity to drive much more food and beverage trade through the delightful public rooms."

High-tech business park is proposed for Bicester

By Samantha McGregor

A PLANNING application for a new high-tech business park and hotel on the outskirts of Bicester has been submitted.

Developer Bloombridge wants to build a 149-bedroom hotel, four office blocks and car-parking at scrubland off Oxford Road and Vendee Drive.

It says the development, called Bicester Gateway, would create 550 new jobs.

The site, Promised Land Farm, is split over both sides of Vendee Drive, off the south-bound A41 Oxford Road.

It would be developed in two phases – with work on phase one, the hotel, potentially starting this summer.

Bloombridge wants to attract high-tech companies that have outgrown Oxford, and say the business park would help "redress the daily commute and 'brain drain' of local skills to Oxford".

In a report it said the "vision" was for Bicester Gateway to "accommodate high growth, high-tech companies moving from Oxford".

The report continued: "In time, Bicester Gateway, and the town generally, will attract more innovation, but this takes time to build and is dependent on a wide milieu of criteria, including education and skills, but also the services, amenities, retail and cultural offer.

• An application has been submitted for a high-tech business park and hotel at Promised Land Farm

"The objective is to make a start on site in the first half of 2017 with infrastructure and the hotel, and possibly a business space pre-let, to demonstrate to investors and prospective employers that Bicester Gateway, and indeed the whole town, is 'open for business'; with land available to address the lack of suitable, deliverable employment sites on the congested and environmentally constrained immediate outskirts of Oxford."

Bloombridge was established in 2009 and specialises in the acquisition, planning and development of mixed use development projects.

Its directors Richard Cutler and Bruce Usher have previously been involved in projects including Oxford Business Park, the Northern Gateway (Peartree), and Harwell Science and Innovation Campus, and are currently involved in developments in East London and Abu Dhabi.

Richard Mould, Conservative leader at Bicester Town Council, said: "This is a good application and broadly fits with the local plan. It is the type of development we have been asking for in Bicester to bring in high tech jobs."

"The town council would prefer this type of development to the large warehousing sheds that seem to be the norm."

New shops plan

CHIPPING NORTON: Plans have gone in for four new shops in Chipping Norton, including a Marks & Spencer food hall.

The development could also create more than 50 new jobs.

The proposals form part of a £6m regeneration of the former Parker Knoll factory site, in London Road.

It will be decided by West Oxfordshire District Council's planning committee.

More bike racks

BICESTER: Cycle stands in the town centre and Buckingham Road are being upgraded.

Work started this week to replace racks in Sheep Street with 18 new Sheffield stands.

In Caversfield, new covered cycle stands will be installed alongside the bus stop on Buckingham Road, and five stands are also being installed at the junction of St John's Street and North Street.

X Factor star joins Oxford youngsters for station busk

By Alex Iszatt

XFACTOR winner Matt Terry gave a young Oxford cancer survivor the surprise of his life when he joined him to busk at a busy train station ahead of World Cancer Day.

Singer Matt joined aspiring musician Ace Manthey and his older sister Sky as they performed before passengers passing through.

Ace, 12, and Sky, 14, are regular buskers in Oxford city centre and were excited about performing in London's Kings Cross station for what they thought was a promotional video for Cancer Research UK.

But they were delighted when Matt sneaked up beside them and joined in their rendition of Avicii's number one single, Wake Me Up.

When Ace was three, he had been play-fighting with Sky when a huge bruise appeared on his chest. His GP sent him for a blood test where he was diagnosed with acute lymphoblastic leukaemia (ALL).

Ace spent years going through chemotherapy and steroid treatment and it was during this time he learned to play the guitar.

• Sky and Ace were busking at Kings Cross Station on World Cancer Day when they were joined by X Factor winner Matt Terry

Now he has set his sights on becoming the nation's next big rock star.

Speaking about Matt's surprise appearance, Ace said: "It was awesome! Sky and I got to sing some of our favourite songs to hundreds of people and the station was packed."

"I couldn't believe my eyes when Matt Terry joined us, his vocals were amazing. I watched him on the X Factor and thought he was great. Being poorly has only made me stronger and even more determined to follow my dreams."

Matt said: "I'm truly honoured to be supporting World Cancer Day on February 4."

"Everyone is touched by cancer in some way and even the smallest act of unity can make a big difference."

"Singing with Ace and Sky put the biggest smile on their faces, especially after they've been through so much."

"They are very talented too – definitely ones to watch!"

Oxfordshire's top-10 most popular names for babies

JACK and Lily have been named as Oxfordshire's most popular baby names in 2016.

A total of 8,347 births were registered in the county during 2016 with popular name choices similar to those in 2015, Oxfordshire County Council's (OCC) Registration Service has reported.

For girls, Amelia dropped to second place behind Lily while Ava, Sophia, Evie and Sophie entered the top-10 in 2016.

For boys, Jack leapt straight in to the top 10 at number one with Joshua, Thomas and Samuel also entering the top-10 last year.

Alicja Gilroy, superintendent registrar at OCC's Registration Service, said: "It's always interesting to gather the figures together and look at the most popular Christian names in Oxfordshire."

"This year we can see a continued trend toward very traditional Christian names – names that have stood the test of time and that our grandparents or great grandparents may have been christened with in the first half of the 20th century."

"There's a temptation to refer to these names as 'old-fashioned', but given how popular they are in the here and now they are quite clearly the reverse."

Great sports honoured

By George Welch

OXFORDSHIRE'S finest sportsmen, women and clubs enjoyed a night of celebration at the 11th annual Oxfordshire Sports Awards.

A total of 15 accolades were awarded as the county's best athletes and clubs were honoured following a memorable year of sporting achievement.

In an Olympic year, it was no surprise to see rowing – Oxfordshire's speciality event – claim the top awards at the ceremony, which took place at the Kassam Stadium in Oxford on January 27.

Andrew Triggs-Hodge won Sportsman of the Year after storming to gold in the men's eight, alongside fellow Oxfordshire athletes Scott Durant and Will Satch, in August last year.

The former Oxford University Boat Club Member also claimed gold medals in the coxless fours at the Beijing (2008) and London (2012) Games.

Fellow rower, Oxford-based Frances Houghton, was awarded the Sportswoman of the Year prize.

The 36-year-old was part of a history-making women's eight team that took silver – Britain's first in the event – alongside four Leander rowers, and Oxford's Olivia Carnegie-Brown.

Proposal to split parish into two

By Samantha McGregor

RESIDENTS are being asked their view on proposals to split a village in half, creating a new parish.

About 1,000 householders in the Upper Heyford parish have received letters detailing the plan.

If approved, Upper Heyford would be split into two parishes, Upper Heyford and Heyford Park.

It comes as Heyford Park, the former US Air Force Base, undergoes a major development. The site has been earmarked for 1,600 new homes by 2031 in Cherwell's adopted local plan.

Upper Heyford Parish Council has asked Cherwell District Council to consider the split.

Sue Smith, Cherwell's chief executive, said: "The proposed development of RAF Upper Heyford will dramatically increase the population of the existing village."

"The proposals put forward by the parish council are to separate the current parish into two parishes that can better reflect and address the needs of the different communities."

"At the moment we are seeking views on the options that should be consulted on in the forthcoming consultation."

"As parish councils have responsibility for local decisions, including their council tax precept, we want to ensure villagers are involved every step of the way."

"We would encourage all residents to read the letter and submit their feedback by the March deadline to ensure their views are heard and are reflected in the options we will then consult on."

In a statement, Upper Heyford Parish Council said the needs of the two communities were different.

It said: "Heyford Park is a rapidly expanding development and Upper Heyford Village remains a small rural village. The needs and aspirations for each community will be different."

"It is important therefore that both communities are fully represented by their own parish council."

The benefits include councillors being able to respond to the differing needs of residents of each parish and more control over respective finances.

Upper Heyford Parish Council has suggested the new boundary could be along the length of the Kirtlington Road/ Portway bridleway.

District councillors are due to discuss recommendations in May before a second consultation takes place.

Walk the Scandinavian way and get fit

OXFORD residents are being urged to take part in walking exercises – but with a twist.

Nordic Walking is a full-body exercise that sees people walk with sticks similar to ski poles and is a great way to get in shape and burn calories.

A new four-week Learn to Nordic Walk Course, organised by Oxford City Council, will be held at Cutteslowe Park on Sunday, February 19 at 10.30am.

A six-week session, at Bury Knowle Park next to Headington Library, started on Thursday last week. Booking is essential though, as the council warned that demand for both events is high.

Completing the Learn to Nordic Walk Course will allow those walking-enthusiasts to attend any Nordic Walking group across the country, and join Nordic Walking UK.

Nordic Walking originated in the 1930s when cross country skiers in Finland started to use poles in their off-season training when there was no snow.

• Nordic Walking originated in the 1930s in Finland

It uses 90 per cent of the major muscles, people burn 20 to 30 per cent more calories by using poles while walking, and it takes the physical strain off knees and joints.

The city council has already hosted refresher courses for those who have previously completed a Learn to Nordic Walk Course and wanted to brush up on their technique.

WIN tickets to see An American in Paris

WHO could ask for anything more?

Directly following celebrated engagements in New York and Paris, this critically acclaimed and multi Tony® Award-winning Broadway musical of love and hope lights up the West End from Saturday 4 March at London's Dominion Theatre.

Inspired by the Oscar® winning MGM film, An American In Paris features many of George and Ira Gershwin's timelessly popular songs and music, including I Got Rhythm, I'll Build a Stairway to Paradise, The Man I Love, They Can't Take That Away From Me and 'S Wonderful.

Featuring its original, award-winning Broadway stars, and an exceptional company of 50 actors, dancers and musicians, An American In Paris tells the story of a young American soldier striving to make it as a painter in the aftermath of war.

Following a chance encounter with a beautiful young dancer, the 'City of Light' becomes the backdrop to a sensuous, modern romance of art, friendship and love.

Staged by some of the most celebrated theatre-makers in the world (including director and choreographer Christopher Wheeldon and designer Bob Crowley, together with the writer

Closing date: Friday, February 24

Sudoku

The objective is to fill a 9×9 grid with digits so that each column, each row, and each of the nine 3×3 sub-grids that compose the grid (also called "boxes", "blocks", "regions", or "sub-squares") contains all of the digits from 1 to 9. Holding nothing back

By James Richings

IT'S fair to say that 2016 was the year of shocks – numerous celebrity deaths, Brexit, Donald Trump becoming US President, Leicester City winning the Premier League and the X Factor still being on our screens surprised many people.

So you can imagine comedian Andy Parsons had a field day when writing his new show *Peak Bullsh*t*, which will arrive at the Chipping Norton Theatre on Wednesday, February 15.

This is the comic's first UK tour since his Live and Unleashed... But Naturally Cautious tour two years ago, with the show examining topics nobody can get away from.

"2016 will be remembered for the EU referendum and Donald Trump and Boris Johnson and Michael Gove," Andy said.

"So if I have to summarise the show, it's asking has the world gone mad, what it means to British in 2017, what it means to be a patriot - and is it true that we only like immigrants if they can win us gold medals at the Olympics?"

He added: "You could argue it's the worst time to be a satirist because events of 2016 have proved that what satirists say has no effect whatsoever on the general public."

"Satirists should be arguing for World War III and an increase in bankers' bonuses on the grounds that, then, they are much less likely to happen."

Away from the stage, Andy became well known for his appearances on the panel show Mock the Week, a show he first appeared on in 2005.

But it could have been so different for the 49-year-old, who originally aimed to pursue a career in law.

Andy studied the subject at Christ's College in Cambridge where he met Henry Naylor.

The two soon became good friends and decided to form a double act, where they toured with the National Student Theatre Company twice, and the Cambridge University dramatic club Footlights.

However, after graduating, Andy got a job working as a legal clerk on a case at the Greenock shipyards, which was when he realised he wanted to pursue a career in comedy.

Whilst doing a number of small gigs, he received his first writing job for the satirical puppet show Spitting Image, before getting the call to be a regular panellist on Mock the Week.

He is now regarded as one of the most successful British comedians with five sell-out national tours.

"I think people really are hungry for political debate," Andy said.

"While we are being bombarded with information, you could argue that we know much less about the world we live in - what with the growth of fake news on the internet and people really don't trust experts any more."

"There is so much bullsh*t out there that people don't know where to go for their news and information."

"Apparently a lot of people are getting their information from comedy shows, which given that they are comedy shows, is very worrying."

"You ask any comedian why the chicken crossed the road and they will all give you a different answer."

The show is suitable for over 14s. Tickets cost £16.50 and it starts at 7.45pm.

Duo hope for stand-out performance

THEY may have only been going for less than two years but Rews have certainly made an impression.

The alternative rock duo of singer-songwriter and vocalist Shauna Tohill and musician Collette Williams have gained over 3,000 Facebook likes in that time and released four tracks to rave reviews.

So the two friends are pretty confident their debut gig at the Fusion Arts Centre in Oxford on Saturday will go smoothly.

But why call themselves Rews? "Rews was inspired by the Dutch surname 'Reus', which means the tall people, and we aspire to stand out," Shauna told the Guardian.

"Plus, we are pretty tall as well!" "Since we've been performing together, it's just amazing to see people connecting and being moved either emotionally or physically."

"This helps you see that perhaps music really does help people to gain power, relax and perspective in every day situations."

As well as visiting the Princes Street venue, the two musicians will also travel to theatres and arts centres in Newcastle, Aldershot, Cardiff, Nottingham and Birmingham to name just a few as they continue to make a name for themselves.

Collette then revealed to the Guardian: "As one person once told us - it takes 10 years to become an overnight success."

"But we just have to do it (make music) because we love it."

"And on the night, expect lots of noise, songs the audience can let their hair down to and get lost in."

"It will be a place where they can have fun and enjoy pure rock."

The gig will begin at 7.30pm and tickets cost £5.

Are you Mitching me much?

By James Richings

A MIXTURE of stand-up comedy and music will be on the cards when Mitch Benn arrives in Banbury.

The comedian, who is well known for incorporating music into his sets, is currently on his Don't Fear the Reaper UK tour, stopping off at the town's Mill Arts Centre on Friday, February 17.

And even though the show is set to be a lighthearted affair, Mitch revealed why he decided to choose a dark title for his latest tour.

"Aside from the obvious (if you're an old rock bore like me), it is a Blue Oyster Cult reference as it was the fact that the slew of famous people dying last year got me thinking about my own mortality and mortality in general," he said.

"It's the one thing that truly unites us but the last thing we want to talk about. So I decided to crack a bunch of jokes and sing some songs about it instead."

Mitch's comedy career began in 1994 when a then 24-year-old aspiring comedian was trying out stand-up for the first time at the Edinburgh University Theatre Company, where he soon became a frequent member.

As time went on, his audiences increased and two years later in 1996, Liverpoolian Mitch moved to London where his lively shows made him an established name in the UK comedy clubs, where he also became a regular on the university circuit.

Soon after his comedy career got off the ground, Mitch then became a radio presenter where he was a contributor to BBC Radio 4's The Now Show for 17 years. He has also presented shows on Radio 2 and Radio 4 Extra.

So with such a glittering career which has lead the 46-year-old to perform all over the country, he revealed what he believes is the greatest achievement.

"Without a doubt, the greatest achievement of my life so far is keeping my two daughters happy," he told the Guardian.

"And from my own experience, I personally think it's good for 'youngsters' (are they still called that?) to get involved in stuff like this.

"Especially live stuff because if it's music and/or comedy then so much the better, and if it's being done by me then that's just great."

The show is suitable for over 14s, tickets cost £15.50, and it starts at 8pm.

• Breabach (from left) Megan Henderson, James Lindsay, Ewan Robertson, Calum MacCrimmon and James Duncan Mackenzie

Scottish sounds from award-winning musicians

THE sounds of Scottish country music will be heard at The Northwall Arts Centre when Breabach arrive in the city on Tuesday, February 14.

The five-piece band, who are made up of Calum MacCrimmon (pipes, whistles, and vocals), Megan Henderson (fiddle), Ewan Robertson (guitar and vocals), James Duncan Mackenzie (pipes and flute) and James Lindsay (double bass), arrive at the South Parade venue to showcase tunes off their latest album, Astar, released at the end of last year.

James Lindsay believes the gig – the first at the venue – will be one to remember, due to the inspiration behind their latest album.

"Astar is inspired by the journey we have been on as a band in the last five years. We've been so fortunate to travel to different continents and countries and meet, as well as collaborate with some amazing musicians. We wanted to pay homage to these experiences."

Since forming in 2005, the group have released five popular albums and have won numerous awards such as the 'Folk Band of the Year' category at last year's MG Alba Scots Trad Music Awards.

They were also nominated for the 'Best Group' category at the 2015 BBC Radio 2 Folk Awards – and James hopes the success can continue in 2017.

"When you receive an award or even get nominated, it's really humbling to get recognition for the work we've put it," James said.

"It's nice to know people like what we do."

He added: "Playing live is the one of the best parts of this job so when the audience is excited about our music it amps us up and sparks can fly on stage."

Tickets cost from £10 to £12 and the gig will start at 8pm.

How are Oxford house prices performing?

Bill Cooper, co-author of The Oxford Property Blog and managing director of Martin and Co, Oxford

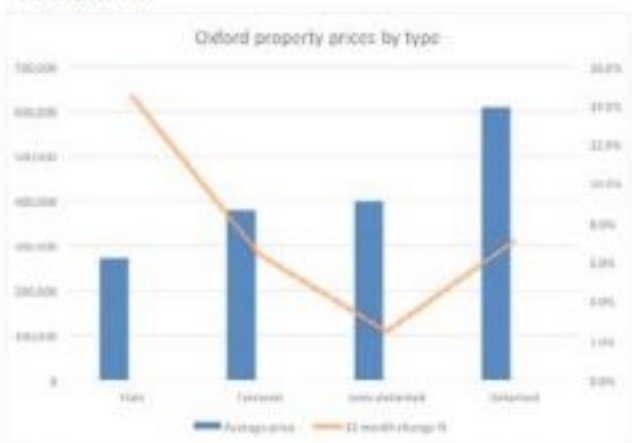

In recent weeks many people have asked how Oxford house prices have performed over 2016, and how different parts of Oxford are performing relative to others.

Over the last 12 months there were 3,202 property transactions across Oxford which was 12 per cent down on the previous 12-month period. Despite a fall in volumes, Rightmove advises Oxford prices are six per cent up on the previous year, so reduced volumes have not been mirrored by reduced demand, which remains buoyant.

By property type, apartments have performed the best, increasing 14.5 per cent over the last 12 months, followed by detached houses at 7.1 per cent, terraced at 6.4 per cent and semi-detached at just 2.5 per cent.

According to Rightmove, the average value of property sold last year in Oxford is £492,531, six per cent up on the previous year and 16 per cent up since 2014.

However the spread in performance across Oxford's main sub-markets is from -9 per cent (Wolvercote) to +14 per cent (Greater Leys).

The top five performing areas of Oxford since 2014 are Greater Leys, Kennington, Kidlington, Cumnor Hill, and Boars Hill. Over the last 12 months however the picture looks quite different, the top five being Greater Leys, Cumnor Hill, Kennington, Cowley, and Marston.

Picture 2

This suggests that after a very strong showing in 2015, Kidlington has paused a little, consolidating the gains rising at a steadier five per cent over the last 12 months. However, it is interesting to note the strength of the market in Greater Leys as people search for better affordability and for landlords stronger rental yields.

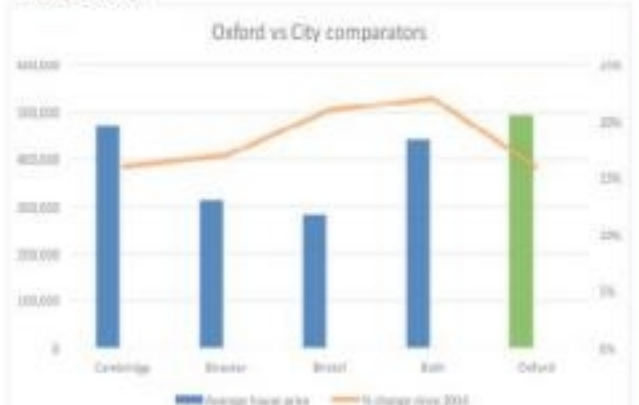

New developments in Cumnor Hill are lifting prices and transaction volume with prices up 13 per cent, again offering good value and better rental yields for investors.

So how has Oxford performed relative to other UK cities? The average house price in Cambridge is £472,590, and has increased in value by 16 per cent since 2014 – closely matching Oxford which remains a little more expensive.

Bath has an average price of £442,250 but a stronger growth profile since 2014 of 22 per cent which is comparable growth to neighbouring Bristol, where an average property is considerably lower at £284,100. It is also interesting to look at Oxford's neighbour, Bicester, where the average property is worth £312,539 – some £180,000 below Oxford, showing comparable two-year growth of 17 per cent.

There remains an air of uncertainty despite positive economic data, but most commentators agree that Oxford should comfortably match the average UK market forecast of six per cent to 6.5 per cent increase in average prices during 2017. Over the last five years Oxford property values have increased by 37 per cent, 2017 looks set to add to that growth positively.

Two bedroom family home set right on the river in Abingdon

• From front page

Reaching further to the rear of the property, the light, bright and functional galley kitchen has been well appointed to make best use of the space, whilst the addition of a raised conservatory-come-dining area allows natural light to flood into the space, offering the perfect spot to enjoy an evening meal, or take advantage of the attractive sky views.

To the first floor, the master bedroom benefits from a stream and river outlook, as well as a feature fireplace while the front-aspect window allows plenty of natural light into the room.

The landing provides access to the bathroom and second floor, and boasts a rear facing sash window creating a light and bright atmosphere whilst providing enough space to create a small study area.

The second bedroom has dual aspect windows to the front and rear of the property whilst benefitting from useful built-in storage.

The accommodation is completed by a family bathroom which has been fitted with a modern white suite and also contains the airing cupboard.

Externally the rear garden enjoys an elevated position providing a sunny spot to soak up the sun. The garden consists of a lawn with shrubs and flower beds as well as a patio, which lends itself well as a social space.

Support at every stage of the buying for investment journey

Whilst some recent legislative changes have been introduced to stem the popularity of the buy-to-let market, the reality is such that property remains a popular and mostly sound investment vehicle, and that's the case whether you're an amateur or more seasoned property investor.

Oxford and its surrounding towns and villages, of course, remain popular in this respect. Not only does the city offer two leading universities and a student population of at least 32,000, but it continues to attract both young professionals and growing families who may work nearby or further afield thanks to the city's enviable transport links.

Whilst becoming a landlord isn't something that should be entered into lightly, the good news for anyone wishing to do so in Oxfordshire is that with five branches of Andrews in the county, help and advice on everything you could possibly need to know is close at hand.

Sound and extensive research is a vital starting point and we pride ourselves on the extent to which we can advise and support you. Whether its insight into suitable properties for investment; where the up and coming areas to invest in are; what your options are for how you'll manage a single property and a larger portfolio as it grows; or even what the pros and cons of investing in a new-build property as opposed to an established home might be, we'll spend the necessary time to understand your needs and work out what best suits you.

It may be that you're a budding property developer and don't simply want to invest in bricks and mortar but be responsible for the actual build itself. If that's the case, we'll connect you with our land and new homes experts who can help source land for your project, whilst our property management team can advise on how to secure the best return on an investment you've built from scratch.

But it's not just what you invest in and where that we'll advise on. Our team of finance experts will provide you with impartial advice whether you're thinking about purchasing your first buy-to-let property; already have a large portfolio which you wish to expand; or are going down the build or renovation route.

You may already be a landlord, whether by design or default, and be considering disposing of a single investment property or even a larger portfolio. If this is the case, our team of experts at your local branch will be delighted to arrange a no-obligation consultation with you to consider your strategic options for disposal.

Every buy-to-let experience is different and end-goals will vary from one investor to another. Whether you're dipping your toe in for the first time and either need or want to take a cautious approach, or you're a more seasoned investor with the scope to take a more speculative approach, the team at Andrews can support you every step of the way.

Visit andrewsonline.co.uk or pop in to one of the five Andrews' branches across Oxfordshire to discuss your property investment needs in detail.

Since meeting under the arc of a rainbow near the River Tyne, Little Comets have ploughed only forwards, undeterred by fields of noise since 2009. WORHEAD is the most brutally honest Little Comets album to date - acerbic, withering and uncomplimentary about the state of our time; yet woven together with great beauty and care, drenched in positive melody and the percussive thrust of an innocent mind.

Enhanced by a top backing band, the show lovingly and authentically recreates the many songs that made Dylan the living legend he is today, the way we all remember hearing them. The heady idealism of Blowing In The Wind and The Times They Are A-Changin'; the electric venom of Subterranean Homesick Blues and Like A Rolling Stone. Timeless love songs like Lay Lady Lay and I'll Be Your Baby Tonight; the mysticism of All Along The Watchtower or Mr Tambourine Man.

ENTERTAINMENT & LISTINGS

More than just a singer

By James Richings

BOB Dylan is a living legend.

Originally born Robert Zimmerman, the 75-year old is one of the world's most influential artists.

Millions of album sales, sold out tours, number ones all over the world and incredibly powerful lyrics have made him one of the biggest names in music.

So for Bill Lennon, who will be portraying the musician at The Chipping Norton Theatre on Friday, February 10, the chance to become one of his heroes was a 'no brainer', as the Spring Street faithful will be able to relive some of Dylan's most iconic songs.

"I have always been a fan ever since I heard my dad's Freewheelin' Bob Dylan album as a youngster," Bill told the Guardian.

"So with the show, it was really just waiting for the right time. And although there have been other Dylan tributes, I felt it needed a proper theatre show to really do it justice."

With a career spanning over 50 years, Dylan has been recognised for his dedication to the arts beyond music. His songwriting skills have landed him 12 Grammy Awards, an Oscar, a Golden Globe and the Nobel Prize for Literature.

He has also been inducted into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame, Nashville Songwriters Hall of Fame, and Songwriters Hall of Fame, but away from entertaining millions of people around the world, Dylan is also a frequent painter and has had his work published in numerous books.

"He is an absolute legend," Bill said.

"He has written many songs that might cause even non-Dylan fans to reassess their position."

"Mr Tambourine Man (The Byrds) and All Along The Watchtower (Hendrix) are examples that spring immediately to mind and are all performed in the show."

"Ultimately, I think he gave people licence to demand more from their music experience than a lightweight 'boy meets girl' ditty at a time when that was the norm."

The show starts at 7.45pm and tickets cost £18.50.

A night of laughs

Kate's new material

LIVE MUSIC: Singer-songwriter Kate Nash will gig at the O2 Academy in Oxford on Monday, February 13.

The 29-year-old, who is best known for her 2007 hit Foundations which reached number two in the charts, comes to the Cowley Road venue to showcase new material.

The gig is suitable for over 14s and tickets cost £15.75.

Doors open at 7pm.

Meet puppet Fred

THEATRE: One of the most popular shows at last year's Edinburgh Fringe Festival is at the Cornerstone Arts Centre in Didcot on Saturday, February 11.

Meet Fred focuses on a puppet who wants to fit everyday human life, but faces constant prejudice from his peers.

It starts at 7.30pm.

You & Your Wedding

The changing face of men's wedding attire

As we welcome in the New Year, many freshly engaged couples post-Christmas, will start to make the first tentative steps to planning their wedding. One aspect of this will be the wedding suits. 2017 looks like it will carry forward some the trends starting to emerge in 2016. I am expecting to see the following trends to increase in popularity:

- The return of the bow tie. We started to see the rise in popularity of the bow tie in 2016, and this trend is set to continue into 2017. The bow tie offers a contemporary edgy look, when paired with a nice lounge suit, and works particularly well with the ever popular tweed wedding look.

- Braces – the return in popularity of the bow tie, has also been mirrored in the rise in demand for braces. When paired together, the groom is able to achieve the ever popular country, vintage look that is proving so popular at the minute.

- Tweed – 2015 and 2016 saw a sharp rise in demand for tweed suits. As barn weddings grew in popularity so too did the country tweed look. We have seen a large increase in the demand for lighter weight tweeds, suitable for wearing for summer weddings, as well as plain herringbone tweeds, for grooms looking to wear tweed, but not wanting to look like they have just stepped off the shooting ground.

- Slim fit Blue Lounge Suits – 2016 saw a surge in demand for brighter blue lounge suits. This look is likely to prove popular in 2017 also. We expect to see more wedding parties opt for a two piece lounge suit with a contrasting waistcoat rather than a matching three piece suit.

- Brown Or Black Shoes – As sartorial rules on brown shoes seem to be relaxing, 2017 is no doubt going to see the continued rise in demand for brown wedding shoes. Both brown brogues and boots will continue to grow in popularity, as more people opt away from formal wedding attire adopting the more relaxed look of lounge suits and tweed suits.

At the Cotswold Tailor we regularly change our stock to keep up with changing consumer demands. In March we launch our new luxury tailored fit, blue lounge suits, ready for this summer's weddings, as well as stocking one of the largest collections of tweed wedding suits for hire in the county

Functional and rewarding drive - a true five star car that always delivers time and time again

Outback 2.0D SE Auto 'brilliant'

By Tony Yates

THE Subaru Legacy Outback was introduced to the world back in 1995, and was for me one of the world's first crossovers - because it had managed to successfully combine the benefits of a passenger estate with the all-road capabilities of an SUV.

Since its introduction, the Outback has acted as Subaru's flagship model in the UK, winning praise for its practical, all-road nature as well as winning the hearts and minds of whoever took to the wheel.

We are now into 2017 - and the fifth generation Subaru Outback you see before you sports a modern exterior design, a significantly higher quality interior than most, along with a raft of safety technology.

POWER AND EFFICIENCY

The Outback was equipped with an efficient 2.0-litre Boxer Diesel engine - a unit that provides you with a maximum power of 150 PS and a torque figure of 350NM. On the combined cycle I achieved 46mpg which is quite impressive and if you are at all interested in maximum speed - then it comes in at around 119mph and 0-62mph in 9.9s.

Outback buyers also have the option to choose a 175PS naturally-aspirated 2.5-litre petrol engine which has been engineered for greater environmental friendliness and more accessible power, but I would opt for the Diesel every time as I feel it's the better choice out of the two units.

ON THE ROAD

The Outback feels great on any road surface and that's thanks to its predictable handling and smooth ride. Remember the Outback also has some of the best off-road capabilities and is in itself an effortless car to drive thanks mainly to the Symmetrical All-Wheel Drive layout, which helps further increase the Outback's off-road credentials even over some of the toughest terrains.

I was also genuinely astonished how sure footed the Outback felt - even when pushed to the limit. I can clearly see now why so many outdoor family's choose own one as a second car.

DESIGN AND TECHNOLOGY

Some of standard equipment on the Outback comes in the form of: Automatic LED headlamps, LED tail lamps, 17-inch aluminium alloy wheels, protective body cladding, wheel mounted gearshift paddles, automatic air conditioning system, tyre pressure monitoring system, 5.0-inch EyeSight LCD driver display, 7 airbags, ABS with Electronic Brake-force Distribution, Thatcham Cat 1 alarm Immobiliser, Symmetrical All-Wheel Drive, Vehicle Dynamics Control, Hill Start Assist and Active Torque Vectoring

Entertainment, you also get a 7.0-inch touch screen infotainment system, satellite navigation, Subaru STARLINK connectivity, steering wheel-mounted audio controls, Bluetooth hands-free, USB port and a six-speaker audio system.

TO SUM UP

The Outback is nothing short of brilliant - it will be everything you will ever need it to be and then some. Of course there are areas where I feel the interior could be a touch better - but it's very functional and the drive is most rewarding. I am happy to give the Outback 5 stars because it truly is a machine that always delivers - time and time again.

THE LAW HAS CHANGED ...
DO YOU HAVE THE CORRECT GAS?

We can now offer
R1234YF car air-con
recharge and service

Is your car 2013 or newer? If so, you will need the correct gas.

As of the 7th September 2016 we are able to offer R1234yf refrigerant re-gassing, or a car air-con recharge as sometimes known at our Wheatley Car Centre Branch.

This gas is compulsory for new cars from 2013 all be it has been around since 2010, although some manufacturers are still refusing to use this, notably Mercedes who are not happy with the flammable nature of the gas, which in turn means not many companies offer the re-gassing service for cars using r1234yf. But due to the amount of cars we sell we have needed to be able have this service onsite so we can now offer this service to our customers.

A common question is why the old, r134a gas found in most cars today, is being replaced?

It's driven by environmental concerns as the new gas is more environmentally friendly.

So, for ALL your re-gas and service needs please contact our Wheatley Car Centre Service Department, tel. 01865 874046 opt 2 • www.wheatleycarcentre.co.uk

Young skiers aiming to be in championship pole position

By George Welch

HE may only be 12 years old, but Oxford's Adrian Yung will be taking on boys two years his senior when he races the English Alpine Championships in Italy.

For one so young, the Magdalen College School pupil is well-versed in national competition, participating in what will be at his fourth English championships.

The English Alpine Championships are a week of national-level racing and skiing camaraderie, featuring the best English skiers in the country, ranging from under-10s up to senior athletes.

Yung made his debut in Bormio, Italy, as a 'mini', and finished fourth in the giant slalom three years ago.

The CDC Performance skier, who has aspirations to compete at the Youth Olympics, said: "When I'm skiing, when you do the perfect turn and your skis work to set you up for the next turn, that's what's really golden for me."

"I've raced the England Champs since I was nine years old and I've had success in the past - I finished fourth there in 2014 in the Giant Slalom.

"This year I'll be racing the slalom, Super G and Giant Slalom in Bormio, and then the same in Tignes, for the British Champs, too."

"I'd say I'm best at GS, and having been fourth before then I'd love to get on the podium this time - it would feel great, I would've achieved my goal for the season."

From Saturday to next Friday, 350 of the best English alpine skiers will descend on Bormio for the 21st English Alpine Championships, organised by national governing body Snowsport England.

Despite being last year's winner, Brize Norton's Jack Cunningham insists he is not feeling the pressure of being defending champion ahead of this year's English Alpine Championships. The 14-year-old won the overall crown in Bormio, last year, but has made the step up to under-16 level this year and said everyone starts with a clean slate.

And Cunningham, who lives on the RAF base, wants to get as much experience under his belt as he can.

"I will be doing all the races possible," said the Cheltenham College pupil.

"I'll be targeting the Super G and Giant Slalom, and the slalom may be good as well, but primarily the Super G and GS."

"Last year I was the overall winner. Maybe people will be aiming at me a little bit, but it's a fresh start so I don't really feel like there's much pressure."

And while Cunningham admits he was an unknown quantity heading into last year's race, his form so far this season gives him confidence ahead of the trip to Italy.

"Last year was only my second year in the English, so I wasn't really anybody, I was just there to race, and it happened to go extremely well," he said.

Cunningham started skiing when he was three because his grandparents live in Austria.

Hat-trick hero stings Hornets

ALAN Green was the hat-trick hero for Oxford City Stars as they beat Bracknell Hornets 5-2 on Sunday to win back-to-back games for the first time since November.

The Stars, buoyed by the previous week's win over second-placed Invicta Dynamos, were in ruthless mood at the Oxford Ice Rink as they raced to a 3-0 lead within 10 minutes.

Green scored his first of the night on five minutes and, less than a minute later, Joe Edwards doubled the lead to put the hosts in control.

Just four minutes later and Green netted his second and his side's third in front of a jubilant home crowd.

The puck went backwards and forwards between the teams until the Hornets, who are rooted to the bottom of the table, scored their first goal of the night on 16 minutes through Josh Martin from close range.

Simon Anderson's men secured the win when they stormed to a 5-1 lead in the second period.

Green rounded off his hat-trick on 26 minutes before Jesse Lye got in on the action five minutes later with just his second goal for the club.

The Hornets did pull one back shortly before the end of the second period, but there was to be no third period fight back from the Bracknell side and Oxford ran out 5-2 winners.

The Stars, who are up a place to fourth in the NIHL South 1, host Milton Keynes Thunder on Saturday and travel to Solent Devils on Sunday.

Scholarships for Oxford trio of players

THREE Oxford-based rugby league players have been offered scholarships at professional side London Broncos.

Cameron Scott (stand off), Euan Stamp (centre) and Alfie Beckett (prop) all got the selectors approval for the Scholarship programme, which will involve 10 games against Super League opposition between February and August this year.

Oxford RL said the success of the Oxford Cavaliers youth section trio is a "truly excellent achievement".

Coach John Connaughton said "The work the boys have done over the last 12 months has been impressive and their success is very much deserved."

"It is also exciting to see another student from Henry Box achieving in the sport with Cameron Scott following in the footsteps of the Griffin brothers who play in Super League."

Oxford RL added: "It's worth stating that 30 years of activity along with financial millions have been invested in London with numerous strategies over the decades."

"Oxford send three players, with three years coaching in a non-Rugby League playing area and all of them get offers. It brings warmth to the heart of Oxford RL."

New general manager for Frilford Heath

FRILFORD Heath Golf Club has announced the appointment of a new general manager at its three championship golf course.

Russell Stebbings, who started his new position at the end of January, joins Frilford Heath Golf Club from Farleigh Golf Club and Restaurant in Surrey.

In his four years at Farleigh he turned the loss making club that Foxhills Group acquired in 2012 into a profitable club by 2016.

In that time they have received the TripAdvisor Certificate of Excellence in 2014, 2015 and 2016 for their restaurant.

In the move from the Home Counties to Oxfordshire, Stebbings, who was voted as general manager of the year in 2011, brings with him over 16 years' experience in the golf industry.

Alistair Booth, chairman at Frilford Heath Golf Club, said: "We are delighted to extend a warm welcome to Russell."

"His excellent customer service achievements and record speak for themselves and the board is confident that he will make a great contribution to the life of the club."

The club, which boasts European Tour professional Eddie Pepperell a member, added that they have appointed a new golf manager to start in March.

Millers face postponements

NORTH Leigh have only played three of their last eight matches after Saturday's and Tuesday's were both postponed.

The Millers' trip to Shortwood United at the weekend and their home game against Barnstaple Town on Tuesday were both called off due to waterlogged pitches.

Having already faced a fixture pile-up due to memorable runs in the Emirates FA Cup and the Buildbase FA Trophy earlier in the season, the west Oxfordshire side also had three matches postponed last month.

John Brough's side are seven points and four places off the Division 1 South & West play offs but have up to five games in hand on teams above them.

With a bit of luck, the Millers will host Winchester City, who are just a point and position above them, on Saturday.

Ardley double over rivals

ARDLEY United manager Paul Davis couldn't contain his delight after his side scored an injury time winner to complete the double over promotion hopefuls Thatcham Town.

Both sides had a number of opportunities to score that went begging, before Ardley's Matt Cruse slotted home right at the death to pinch a 1-0 victory.

It was Thatcham's first Hellenic Premier League match without scoring a goal since, funnily enough, losing 1-0 to Ardley at home on the opening day of the season in August.

The winner came in added time when Carl Tappin found Cruse, who calmly tucked the ball beyond Chris Rackley to win the game.

A jubilant Davis said afterwards: "What a way to win a game of football!"

"They are always the best ones, when you score late to win, and the worst ones to lose if you concede late.

"We've done both this season, but have won more through late goals at home which tend to stick in the memory when you reflect on games gone by.

"It speaks volumes about our character, the way we keep going, keep working, and it's paid off for us today on a heavy pitch that both sides had to contend with."

The result sees United remain in sixth spot as Thatcham dropped to fifth in the table.

Ardley's Tuesday night clash with league leaders Bracknell Town was postponed due to a waterlogged pitch.

They travel to mid-table Royal Wootton Bassett on Saturday.

Oxford United Women looking to league after defeat in cup

By George Welch

OXFORD United Women were the victim of a cup upset when they lost 2-0 at Coventry United in the 3rd round of the SSE Women's FA Cup on Sunday.

An Alison Hall header and a Jade Formaston piledriver made it the worst possible start to Oxford's new campaign.

Coventry's win capped a seventh consecutive victory and their 84th goal across all competitions.

But following the new season's curtain raiser the Yellows are now focused on the new Spring Series which kicks off on Sunday with a home game against Everton Ladies at Northcourt Road.

The Spring Series is a new league where the WSL2 teams play each other once, either home or away, with the new WSL2 season then kicking off as a winter league next August.

New boss Karl Milgate said: "It is exciting to be playing again. The girls have been back in for a good pre-season where they have worked extremely hard.

"We have kept the majority of the squad; it is still a very young group but they have been together for a while and there is a terrific team spirit and enthusiasm which we hope will enable us to do really well.

"We have made massive progress over the last few years. Demi Lambourne and Riva Casley are involved in the England under 20s and under 18s and last season saw crowds rise by 85 per cent: the biggest in the league."

United have bolstered their squad ahead of Sunday's league opener with the signing of Yeovil midfielder Emily Donovan. The 19-year-old signed a contract last week to join the U's from Yeovil Town Ladies, where she was part of the squad that won WSL2 last season.

She said: "I'm really excited to have signed for Oxford. "I know it will take time for me to settle in and get used to a new set up, but everyone has made me feel welcome and I'm really optimistic that Oxford are putting everything in place for a successful season and I want to be an integral part of that."

Meanwhile, last year's WSL2 player of the year Ini Umotong has committed to a new deal.

Oxford's top goalscorer scored 13 times in 19 games last season, making her the top scorer in the league and player of the year.

Defender Riva Casley has also signed a new contract.

Diddy still searching for first win of 2017

DIDCOT Town's winless 2017 continued with their first defeat of the year at home to Salisbury as they slipped into the bottom half of the table.

Having drawn all four of their games so far this calendar year, Diddy suffered their first defeat on Saturday after they were undone by a first half strike by the Whites' top league scorer Justin Bennett.

In what was a fairly even Division 1 South & West contest short of any real quality, the match at the Loop Meadow was marred for the hosts with two dismissals.

The one moment of real quality in the game proved the winner for play off hopefuls Salisbury, who have won their last four games in all competitions.

Salisbury left winger Brandon Munday collected the ball just inside the Didcot half, evaded three defenders with ease and crossed for Bennett to divert the ball beyond Leigh Bedwell for his 23rd league goal of the season.

Former Oxford United youngster George Jeacock, who joined Town last week, had a debut to forget after being brought on with 20 minutes to go.

In just 10 minutes, he nearly scored and picked up two yellow cards to leave his new side a man light for the closing stages.

And things got even worse for Andy Ballard's side as they chased the game deep into stoppage time.

In a last desperate attempt to equalise, Diddy stopper Bedwell, who was trying to connect with a Didcot corner, fouled a Salisbury player and picked up a yellow card.

The frustrated keeper then presumably expressed his disgust to the referee who promptly awarded a second card to reduce Diddy to nine men.

Banbury too clever for Cambridge with win

BANBURY United reignited their play-off hopes as they got back to winning ways with a 2-0 win over Cambridge City on Saturday.

Goals from Jack Self and Luke Carnell brought back the winning feeling for the Puritans after suffering back-to-back defeats against Merthyr Town and Basingstoke Town.

United took the lead just before the half hour when Ricky Johnson nodded a Marvin Martin cross to Self who, from 15 yards out, chested the ball down and hit a superb left footed volley into the top corner of the net.

Banbury always looked in control and grabbed the all-important second goal in the 73rd minute when a corner from the right saw Carnell head the ball home from the edge of the six yard box at the far post. City tried to rally and had their best spell of the game in the final 10 minutes, but they were unable to force their way back into the match.

Banbury remain in sixth place in the Southern Premier Division as they search for back-to-back promotions, four points and one place off the play-offs.

Mike Ford's side travel to mid-table Biggleswade Town on Saturday.

United are also through to the Oxfordshire Senior Cup semi-final with 3-0 win over Hook Norton on Tuesday.

Goals from James Smith, Darius Browne and Johnson (p) fired the Puritans into the last four.

Get behind the U's this weekend for Fan Day

THE Kassam Stadium will be a sea of yellow and blue on Saturday as Oxford United's League One match against MK Dons has been allocated as Fan Day by the club.

Almost 4,000 Oxford fans made the trip to Milton Keynes earlier in the season and after a full house against Newcastle last weekend, and with another sold-out away end at Swindon on Sunday, the club said it wants the stadium to be buzzing once again.

There will be fun activities around the ground before kick-off, including coaching from Oxford United Women's side and special player visits in the club's new family room.

There's also a chance for fans to head to the Oxford City Stars for an MK double-header as they take on Milton Keynes at the Oxford Ice Rink.

This is part of the club's 'Oxfordshire United' movement, which builds relationships between sports clubs across the whole of the county.

United v Luton in Checkatrade

OXFORD United discovered who they will face in the Checkatrade Trophy semi final as well as their potential finalists at Wembley.

The U's will travel to Luton for the match currently due to be played on March 1 after the Hatters beat Yeovil 5-2 on Tuesday night.

The date may change dependent on other fixtures.

The other semi final, which also took place on Tuesday, saw League One Coventry City beat League Two Wycombe Wanderers 2-1 to secure their place in the final on April 2.

Late goals give victory to United Chris Maguire, and the winger-turned-left back eluded a defender before finding the onrushing Sercombe to bundle home the equaliser.

And the visiting fans were still celebrating when Hall danced past two defenders, worked the ball to his left and unleashed a drive that was past Vigouroux in a flash to give United a 2-1 lead.

Swindon's miserable afternoon was complete and United's joy unbound when Vigouroux was sent off in injury time.

Derby day delight as Oxford do double over neighbours

• The players celebrate at the end of the game
Picture: Steve Daniels

By George Welch

OXFORD United scored two goals in three second half minutes to come from behind and beat arch rivals Swindon Town 2-1 on Sunday.

Goals from Liam Sercombe and Rob Hall cancelled out a first half Swindon strike from Fankaty Dabo at the County Ground to extend their unbeaten run against the Robins to seven matches.

The win means that Oxford – who have now won seven of their previous eight matches against Swindon – have completed the league double against their rivals, just as they did in League Two in the 2011/12 season.

And Swindon goalkeeper Lawrence Vigouroux had a personal double of his own after being sent off against the U's – again.

After being sent off for lashing out at Alex MacDonald in September's league clash at the Kassam, the stopper received his marching orders in injury time on Saturday when he rushed too far from goal and was deemed to have brought down Kane Hemmings.

Vigouroux has since been reprieved after the FA overturned his red card.

There have been five dismissals in the last four battles between the sides.

It was full blooded match but the first goal of the afternoon came the way of the Robins on 19 minutes.

After failing to clear their lines, United were forced to pay when the ball fell to Chelsea loanee Dabo, who took a touch and fired low into Simon Eastwood's right hand corner.

It was the wing back's first senior goal and the first goal Swindon have scored against Oxford in six matches.

United, who last lost to Town in March 2001, were indebted to keeper Eastwood who had to be on form to deny Charlie Colkett – another Chelsea loanee – from doubling the host's lead on the stroke of half time.

The U's grew into the second half as Luke Williams's side sat deeper to protect their lead. It was a risky approach and on 70 minutes United scored the goal they had been threatening.
